In the heart of the desert, an oasis is found.

Clayton Station

Clayton Station is situated on the Birdsville Track, some 50kms outside the township of Marree, South Australia. Home to many generations of the Oldfield family since 1954, this remote cattle station covers 1,000 square miles and is the epitome of the Australian Outback.

The Station is also home to the famed Clayton Waler cross working horses, known for their endurance and temperament, attributes which made them the horse of choice for the 2002 and 2005 Great Australian Outback Cattle Drive.

The Station boasts a rich variety of bird and animal life, which are drawn to the Outback Oasis, the Station bore and subsequent wetlands. An ecosystem that has been isolated for over a hundred years is supported by the artesian bore, making it natural haven for all animal and tourist life.

Trail Rides

Clayton Station offers a 5 day trail ride adventure, based on a 10 person group of people interested in living a bit of the outback life. The views are amazing as landscapes vary from tree enclosed creeks to desert lands with rocky hills overlooking various scenery. Sleep in your own swag and eat traditional campfire foods. Take a relaxing dip in an artesian spa or enjoy a hot shower or bath straight from the artesian bore. Clayton Station is a working cattle station and you will be invited to help drive some cattle along the way. You may even see kangaroos, dingos, emus, brolgas and more wildlife. Live the land and learn the way of the outback. The horses will be happy to guide you the way. Come join us!

Trail rides run through the cooler season - if you are interested in joining us please send us an email at claytonstation@bigpond.com

Clayton Spa and Campsite

The Clayton Station Campsite can be found on the western side of the Birdsville Track, some 53km from Marree. Large enough to be comfortable for any number, the campsite features shady trees, a wood-fired BBQ area and clean toilets/hot showering facilities. A great place to go camping, park the caravan or just a nice place to have a picnic, this little oasis in the desert is ideal for those on a relaxing country holiday. Meet other campers from all over Australia and overseas or just spend time with the family. As an old fashioned campout, Clayton Station is everything you could want in a secluded setting.

The Clayton Spa (pictured above) is a recent innovation by the Oldfield family. A hot, artesian spa is perfect to unwind in after a long day's travel. Complete with spa jets and a towel-rack-bush, you will love this hot spa in the middle of the Australian Outback.
